Linkage Named to Training Industry 2019 Top 20 Leadership Training Companies List

BOSTON, Mass.: Linkage Inc., a leading provider of leadership development programs, has been named among the 2019 Top Training Companies™ in the leadership training sector of the learning and development market.

“This recognition is a testament to our long-standing commitment to deliver flexible, scalable and measurable leadership solutions that develop individual leaders and help transform their organizations,” said Jennifer McCollum, CEO of Linkage. “At Linkage, we know that leaders aren’t born; they’re formed. We are honored to support the urgent need to build great leaders to meet the demands of businesses today and the changing needs of the future.”

“Linkage provides leadership training focused on developing the individual leader and organizational culture, in both the short and long term. Its Purposeful Leadership offering incorporates a focus on lifelong reflection and growth that effects behavioral change through changes in mindset,” said Ken Taylor, president of Training Industry Inc.

Training Industry, the leading research and information resource for corporate learning leaders, prepares the Training Industry Top 20 and Training Industry Watch List reports on critical sectors of the training marketplace to better inform professionals about the best and most innovative providers of training services and technologies. Selection to the annual Top 20 list is based on a variety of criteria, including thought leadership and influence on the leadership training industry, the breadth and quality of programs and audiences served, industry recognition and innovation, and strength of clients and geographic reach.

“Linkage was selected based on the breadth of the client portfolio it supports, the variety of leadership training programs offered and the variety of features offered within its programs,” said Danielle Draewell, market research analyst at Training Industry Inc.
